PUBLIC FUNERAL .- Yesterday afternoon, a larger than erdinary assemblage of persons congregated together to witness the funeral of Henry Hoffman, who kept the public house in 7th street, opposite to Centre Market, known as Hoffman's Hotel. The funeral procession, taches of the chief's office, returned to the city having in custedy the pfincipal burglar con-nected with the heavy robbery of silks and which was very large, consisted of the members of the German Benevolent Society, and of the other goods, in Broadway, several weeks ago. Independent Order of Red Men, as well as the As will be recollected, the dry goods ware-house of Mesers. Hitchcock & Leadbeater, cor-National Greys, to all of which the deceased belonged. The procession left the house about three o'clock p. m., and proceeded along ner of Broadway and Leonard street, was entered by three burglars, who plundered the Pennsylvania avenue in the following order establishment of a quantity of rich goods, to The German Benevolent Society, headed by the amount of nearly $2,000. The rogues had ther banner; Marsoletti's Band; I. O. R. deceased. The procession was a very long one, and extended a considerable distance up the avenue, there being over two hundred members of the German Benevolent Society present, and about the same number of the members of the I.O. R. M. These, together with the National Greys, and the carriages in the rear of the hearse, formed a very long line that attracted considerable curiosity as the procession passed along the avenue. The fineness of the day attracted out a large assemblage of spectators. many of whom were, undoubtedly, drawn thither by idle curiosity; but there was, also. a large number of persons who visited the house to see the remains of the deceased in the coffin, out of better motives. Indeed, the number of persons, that went up into the room where the coffin was placed, was very considerable, consisting mostly of females, so that the house was filled with people, who were moving up and down stairs for some hours before the funeral took place. The corpse of the deceased was neatly dressed, extended in the coffin, and the whole arrangement did great credit to the undertaker. Mr. Buchley. The name of the deceased, his age, &c., were engraved on a silver plate, and it is a singular coincidence that he was just over 38 years of age at the time of his death. having died on the same day of the month on which he was born. The inscription on the plate having the following: Born February st. 1815. Died February 1st, 1854 Aged 38. The deceased was a married man, but has left no family. The burial service was performed by Mr. Finglin, of the German Lutheran

PATENT OFFICE.-Much curiosity has been excited by the Japanese collection sent to the President by Commodore Perry, and which have been deposited in the National Gallery for public exhibition. This collection, which has been arranged in regular order by Mr. John Varden, consists of unique articles of Japanese manufacture, which were sent over in a box of camphor-wood, a description of wood used in the East for holding articles of value, and which has imparted its fragrant odour to the contents. The following is an enumeration of the articles on exhibition :-Fans made from a species of cane, of oval form, and covered with fine paintings; a set of wooden caps and saucers, and bowls with covers, together with wooden boxes, intended as depositories of food. These are thickly japanned, of various colors, with an occasional dash of gold. Two rolls of rich heavy cloth; one of red, white, yellow, and blue silk, interwoven with gold; the other, a combination of gold and yellow silk; and a broad silk belt or sash. A lot of opium pipes, the bowls and tips of brass and steel, handsomely wrought. Silk pipe-cases and opium pouches; and two papers of leaf tobacco.

THE PROPOSED EQUESTRIAN STATUE OF WASHington.-The arrangements for making the equestrian statue of George Washington, for which Congress made an appropriation of $50,000, will soon be complete. Mr. Clarke Mills having built a new studio and foundry a few miles from the city, where he intends to make the statue. The artist proposes to place it on Pennsylvania avenue, fronting Centre market, and in order to give the requisite space for the pedestal, the market-house could be removed back nearer the canal. As a new building is shortly to be erected on the site of the present market, we hope that this improvement will be carried out. If the same site is chosen for the market-house, it will not be possible to have the statue erected in the proposed location without great injury to its beauttes. Besides, placing it further back will be an additional advantage to the avenue, as the thoroughfare need not any longer be blocked up for several hours in the busiest part of the day, as is the case now three times a week, to the inconvenience of all passers by, whether on foot or in vehicles. The artist, we under stand, has made some rough sketches of his work, both in crayon and in clay of the design.

HONESTY OF A HACK DRIVER .- On Thursday afternoon, the porter attached to the banking house of Messrs. Sweeny & Bestor, whilst returning from the Bank of Commerce, Georgetown, lost a package containing several drafts. and $557 in money, on the Bank of Washington. DISAPPOINTMENT OF A LECTURE. - Much disappointment was felt by several persons last Friday night at finding the Smithsonian Instition closed, it being generally the custom to deliver a lecture on that night. Notice was given last Friday week at the close of the lecture that the lecturing nights for the following week would be on Monday and Wednesday, but from the confusion and noise incidental to a great number of people leaving a room, it was not generally heard. Besides, many who perhaps generally attend might not have been present on the night in question. and, therefore, could not be aware of the circumstance, there ought to have been some more public notice given, so that people should not be drawn out of a cold night on a fruitless errand. We understand that several ladies and others stood for a long time outside ex-pecting that the doors would be opened.

MEXICAN VOLUNTEERS .- A meeting of members belonging to the District of Columbia Companies of the D. Grace Church was filled to overflowing with beauty, fashion and piety, to hear the new minister re ently installed there. He is said to be peculiarly eloquent. Upon this point however, I am not able to speak practically not having heard him.

Charles street extended, north of Washington's Monument, reaching a mile beyond Jones' Falls, has recently become a great promenade. turned. The corpse was carried by hand, the Every pleasant Sabbath afternoon it is literally crowded with pedestrians, ladies and gentlemen, young and old, brides and grooms, lovers, courtiers, school misses, &c., all of whom seem to enjoy the recreation. It is becoming a beauiful street, fine houses are being erected on both sides. The time is not distant when it must be one among the most agreeable locations in our city. If its improvements could speak, they would now reiterate many a tender tale of love. Youth and beauty, blushing maidens and love-dreaming youths, mingle their sentimentalities there.

The passers-by, however, cannot but regret and almost lament, as they behold that old venerated mansion, "Belvidere," once the residence of General Howard, is being encroached apon by the rade, ruthless hand of art. Its old, towering, time-honored oaks are falling beneath the woodman's axe. The winding pathways and groves, once shaded, are being penetrated by streets, and the time is not dis tant when the stately old Howard Mansion will crumble and be forever obliterated from the record of vision. It is now owned by Mr. McKim, who, loving money better than relica of antiquity, is selling out the place piecemeal for others to build upon. Some ten years ago, he purchased "Belvidere," then owned by Col. Benjamin C. Howard, for $25,000, and now he is likely to realize $300,000 for it. This was a splendid speculation. 'Change makes change, and so wags the world. Mr. McKim has bought a place called "Prospect Hill," near the Relay House, on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, where he designs erecting a magnificent villa. The beautiful place of Mr. Tiffany, known as 'Rose Hill," is also giving place to streets, houses, &c., which promise, ere long, to absorb its rural attractions. This was another grand speculation. He bought it before Madison street was opened or improved for about $25.000. It will now yield him, perhaps, $300,000. Quite a number of our citizens have made fortunes by thus speculating in lands near Baltimore. That part of the city is improving with wonderful rapidity.

Some of those whom I noticed recently as among our millionaires and men of wealth have been taking an inventory of their capital stock, and think I have placed the figures a little too high. No matter-"riches take to themselves wings and fly away." The difference will be nothing an hundred years hence. RODERICK.
